

'The City Council has approved the proposal to redraw the boundaries of the Reserve, marking a historic milestone for the city's future. The project aims at transforming 'Leonardo da Vinci' Airport into the main hub of the Mediterranean, combining economic development with a drastic reduction in environmental impact on residential areas. For the community of Fiumicino, the airport is not just a piece of infrastructure, but a pillar of local identity: a "child" that has guaranteed dignity and economic stability to tens of thousands of families. Today's approval ensures that the job market will not suffer any contraction, rather it will continue to be the economic driving force of the region, allowing the city to look at the future with ambition. One of the key points of the new project is the direct benefit to residents' quality of life. The reduction of Runway 1 by approximately 900 metres represents a historic victory in the fight against noise and environmental pollution. This change will finally free the residential areas of Isola Sacra, Cancelli Rossi and Focene from the constant exposure to takeoff and landing routes, restoring peace of mind to thousands of residents.'
